

5321 BAYNTON STREET
PHILADELPHIA 44, PA.

August 7, 1951

Lieber Jochen,

Are you at this moment weighing babies? If you were here I would ask you to read the parts of the Authorized Version which I have tentatively chosen for my English XI course.

Last night I estimated the number of classes that I will have each term, the number of preparations, the number which should be spent on literature and on history. Tonight I will start to tailor the history. I will give reading assignments on matters of constitutional development and the necessary background of the literature and try to lecture on the Roman Conquest, the Norman Conquest and whatever else lends itself to story telling. I hope it will hang together.

Will you tell your mother that on a trip in town this afternoon, Mother and I found that your the Resenthal, Maria Selb, pattern is unavailable in Philadelphia. I was disappointed and I am afraid she will be much more. Mother may go to New York with Alex tomorrow night (Cecile leaves Saturday), and she will inquire there.

Wie geht es dir? Ich denke dir viel mehr als ich hier sagen kann. Wie schön wird es mit dir zu sein.

Deine
Margaret